
The “officially released” date that appears near the beginning of each opinion is the date the opinion will be published in the Connecticut Law Journal or the date it was released as a slip opinion. The operative date for the beginning of all time periods for filing postopinion motions and petitions for certification is the “officially released” date appearing in the opinion. In no event will any such motions be accepted before the “officially released” date.

All opinions are subject to modification and technical correction prior to official publication in the Connecticut Reports and Connecticut Appellate Reports. In the event of discrepancies between the electronic version of an opinion and the print version appearing in the Connecticut Law Journal and subsequently in the Connecticut Reports or Connecticut Appellate Reports, the latest print version is to be considered authoritative.

STATE V. SINVIL—DISSENT

SULLIVAN, C. J., dissenting. I respectfully dissent from the majority opinion because I agree with the Appellate Court's conclusion that the defendant was deprived of his due process right to a fair trial, as protected by the federal constitution, as a result of the prosecutor's improper "attempt to affect the jury's decision by arguing facts not in evidence, namely, his own physical condition or the questions that he should have asked [and did not]." State v. Sinvil, 76 Conn. App. 761, 771, 821 A.2d 813 (2003).
